About SHAPING SOUND

SHAPING SOUND was established in Los Angeles in 2012 with a focus on contemporary dance and choreographic artistry. Created by the 2015 Emmy Award winner (and six-time Emmy Award nominee) for Outstanding Choreography Travis Wall, along with partners Nick Lazzarini, Teddy Forance, and Kyle Robinson, the company is an evocative collaboration by diverse artists who describe themselves as "visual musicians," meaning their dance gives shape and form to sound. SHAPING SOUND has impacted audiences with a unique fusion of jazz, modern, and hip-hop choreography. The four young dancers broke into public awareness with the debut of their reality television series "All the Right Moves" on the Oxygen channel which followed them in their quest to launch the dance company. Since that time, they have been showcased on all of America's popular prime-time dance, awards, entertainment, and music shows, including: "So You Think You Can Dance," "Dancing with the Stars," "Glee," and The 2013 Prime-Time Emmy Awards. They were featured in Carrie Underwood's Grammy Award-winning music video "Something in the Water," and are frequent guests on "The Ellen Show."

About After the Curtain

Conceived and choreographed by Travis Wall, After the Curtain is the second show for the eclectic dance company, following on the heels of the spell-binding Dance Reimagined which toured North America for four years. Wall will dance in the show throughout the tour, and will be joined in various cities by his SHAPING SOUND co-founders Teddy Forance and Nick Lazzarini.

About SHAPING SOUND Artistic Director Travis Wall

Winner of the 2015 Emmy Award for Outstanding Choreography, Wall was the runner-up for the FOX reality show "So You Think You Can Dance" (Season 2), and is currently a resident choreographer for the national dance competition show. He is a five-time Emmy nominated choreographer for his work on "So You Think You Can Dance" and "Dancing with the Stars." He choreographed the music video for Carrie Underwood's "Something in The Water," which won the CMT Video of the Year, as well as stage shows for Justin Bieber and Demi Lovato. Additional TV credits include choreographing the 82nd Academy Awards, Disneyland's 60th Anniversary Special on ABC, the 2010 MTV Video Music Awards, and an episode of "Pretty Little Liars" featuring Maddie Ziegler.
